Join the Shelton State Foundation for a journey back in time. With each burst of trumpet fanfare, you will discover Christmas as celebrated in the tradition of Merrie Olde England. The Shelton State Foundation and the Division of Speech and Fine Arts present a Madrigal Dinner and Concert in the Great Hall of a Medieval Castle. It is the holiday season and all the lords and ladies are present.

Madrigals came to England in the 16th century. They provided a private informal entertainment at the castles and country homes of the landed gentry. Madrigals were songs written for small groups in which several voice parts were skillfully combined with each part being interesting and independent both melodically and rhythmically.

The Shelton State Foundation, in cooperation with the Shelton State Community College Division of Speech and Fine Arts, presents this evening for your pleasure at the Christmas season.
